

I think XM is providing a good service as an alternative radio source. I like very much the no commercial atmosphere that I'm paying a reasonable price for. If XM has a good product and a good business plan that provides a innovative new product to americans, The other broadcasters need to be willing to change there products to meet the new developing market place. They need not to petition Congress to change the new product medium. They need to develop with there own moneys a new product and compete! Most of american big business are lazy. They can throgh alot of money at congress men instead doing there job!

Frankly I'm tired of it.
Thanks,

ED
